9 NOVEMBER 2021
OFFICIAL LIVE, VIRTUAL CEREMONY

Music Cities Events alongside Sound Diplomacy and Visit Bentonville are proud to present the second edition of the Music Cities Awards, a global competition designed to acknowledge and reward the most outstanding applications of music for economic, social, environmental and cultural development in cities and places all around the world.

As part of this live, virtual ceremony we will be hosting a live panel discussion for each of our 10 award categories. Each session will see the three award nominees present their projects and share useful tips and information on how similar initiatives could be introduced to improve places, lives and our world as a whole. A mix of award judges and global experts will be moderating the talks and announcing the winner at the end of each webinar.

Music Cities Events

Music Cities Events organises world-leading international conferences on the topic of music cities, produces the leading international awards ceremony Music Cities Awards, and runs the Music Cities Community, the first-ever platform for professionals in all industries using music to create more value in towns, cities & places.

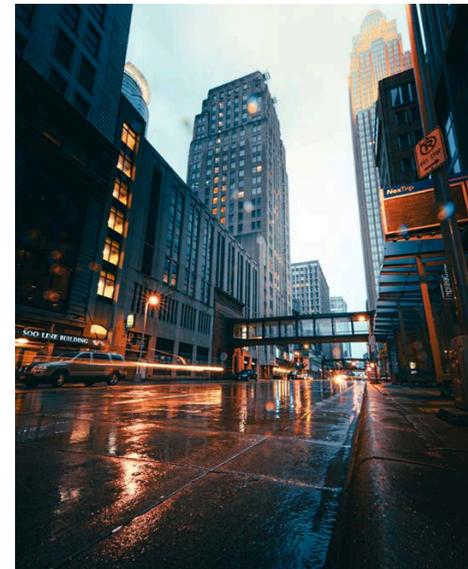

In everything Music Cities Events does, it aims to showcase the best uses of music by individuals, organisations and cities all over the world.

MEET THE NOMINEES:

Makueni Recording Studios, Government of Makueni County (Kenya)

The Government of Makueni County is one of the 47 County Governments in Kenya. Makueni Recording Studios is a recording studio that was set up by the government of Makueni County to provide free recording services to upcoming artists. The Studio was completed in April 2017 and since inception it has recorded 467 singles and 73 full albums for individual musicians and organized groups, including choirs. Recording at the studio is free for all artists from or based within Makueni. Before the studio was created, upcoming artists from the rural area of Makueni County used to travel hundreds of kilometers to Nairobi, the capital city of Kenya, to access recording studios, and studio fees, as well as transportation and accommodation costs were extremely high. It is with this background that The Government of Makueni County decided to set up a state of the art recording studio in its county headquarters to directly support upcoming artists through free recording at the studios.

Musicians' Benefit Concerts, Piqua Arts Council (USA)

Piqua Arts Council is a 501c3 dedicated to making the arts accessible to the community through presentation, support and education. As a way to help musicians impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, Piqua Arts Council produced a series of video concerts that have been used as a vehicle to raise more than $100,000 to support the musicians of Miami and Montgomery Counties in Ohio. This project went to directly help the musicians of Miami and Montgomery Counties recoup some of the money from lost gigs during the pandemic. By creating the concert videos (and paying the musicians along with providing them professional photographs and video), the project raised more than $100,000 to support the musicians.

Musicians Fair Payment Policy, City of Hamilton – Tourism and Culture Division (Canada)

The City of Hamilton – Tourism and Culture Division supports the City's heritage, culture, arts and tourism. As part of this mandate, T&C oversee the Hamilton Music Strategy, which celebrates "all things music" in Hamilton. The Strategy nurtures an environment where music and the music industry can flourish, grow and prosper. On June 23, 2021, the City Council approved the Musicians Fair Payment Policy that supports and increases community awareness of the importance of paying musicians fairly for their music performances. The policy will ensure that musicians hired for City-led events are paid, at minimum, the current minimum annual rates established by the Canadian Federation of Musicians, who are represented locally by the Hamilton Musicians Guild Local 293.

Amanda & Matt Masters Burgener,
Co-Founders, Curbside Concerts (Canada)

Ben Price, Director, Everything Is Music
by Crack Magazine & Landmrk (UK)

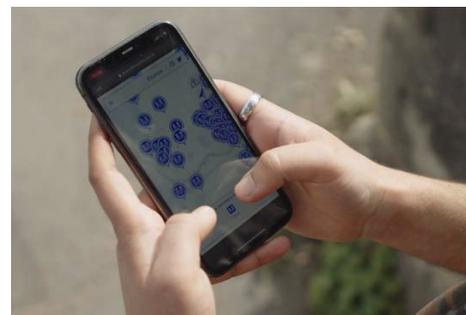

Anne Dvinge, CEO,
Low-Fi Concerts (Denmark)

MEET THE NOMINEES:

Curbside Culture Delivery Service, Curbside Concerts (Canada)

Curbside Concerts is a live music delivery service. Thanks to a dedicated online portal, Canadians can book a safely distanced, live music experience at their curb or driveway. In the past 16 months, Curbside Concerts have successfully delivered over 800 music concerts across 5 provinces. By removing physical and logistical barriers to live music, the organisation has developed a new marketplace in the industry, with the online portal acting as a menu for clients to browse local musicians and discover new artists in their area. Communities that may not have been a part of the music ecosystem are now able to have live concerts delivered to their street and local musicians are safely back to work and connecting with new listeners in an inclusive setting.

Everything Is Music, Crack Magazine & Landmrk (UK)

Active in Bristol and Bath, UK, Everything Is Music is a brand new location-based digital museum for mobile which maps out a city's musical history through a musical treasure hunt. Everything Is Music is a collaboration between international music publication Crack Magazine and geo-location technology specialist Landmrk. The project's mission is to provide a resource for amazing musical discovery, that also creates opportunities for artist's work to be supported. A huge range of musical genres throughout seven decades of musical history have been covered, while local researchers from a diverse range of communities have been involved to authentically tell these stories. The platform combines this authentic storytelling with cutting-edge geo-technology using innovative techniques such as audio wallet collection, video, 2D hologram and AR.

Low-Fi Concerts (Denmark/Sweden)

Live in Denmark and Sweden, Low-Fi Concerts is a community focused concert platform connecting artists and hosts with their audience to can create unique, intimate, live music experiences in local homes, gardens, cafés, galleries or any other non-traditional spaces you can think of. Since its creation in 2018, Lo-Fi has put a lot of effort into creating a diverse and equal platform, with the aim of having a diverse mix of artists and providing each and every artist, host and guest with a safe space to meet, create and enjoy music together. As of today, Lo-Fi has brought together more than 800 artists, 700+ hosts and 15.000 concert guests.

Teresa Knox, CEO, The Church Studio (USA)

International Busking Day, Wembley Park (UK)

Home to world-famous Wembley Stadium and London's most iconic concert venue Wembley Arena, Wembley Park has over the last decade been transformed by Quintain from an event-day destination into a 365-day creative residential neighbourhood for London. Quintain's cultural strategy for Wembley Park features a year-long cultural programme of free public events. Recent highlights include International Busking Day, an annual global celebration of busking and street performance. The free festival features world-class street performers, along with home-grown talent joined by renowned artists who began their career or supported busking. A key part of Wembley Park's regeneration strategy is making music accessible at all levels of audience and talent and developing performance spaces and programmes to extend Wembley's reputation as a global music centre.

Live Venue Recovery Fund, Grubb Properties/Dayna Frank (USA)

Live Venue Recovery Fund is a partnership between Grubb Properties and Dayna Frank, CEO of First Avenue Productions. The Fund helps live venue operators who are leasing their space by creating a path to ownership. By providing capital to live music venues throughout the United States, the Fund aims to better position operators to weather storms and establish long-term ownership to create a more diverse and sustainable independent live music ecosystem. The initiative focuses on venues that are culturally significant to the communities in which they operate, susceptible to redevelopment, and have strong operators. The Fund provides a return to its investors, but it caps those returns and has committed to donating any profits above that return threshold to the National Independent Venue Foundation.

The Studio Row District, The Church Studio (USA)

The Studio Row District which is anchored by The Church Studio, the former historic world-class recording studio of Rock & Roll Hall of Famer and Grammy Award-winning performer Leon Russell – is a regeneration of a blighted neighborhood. The Church Studio was an abandoned, desolate building with structural problems inhabited by the homeless when purchased in 2017. After five years of rehabilitation and renovation, a vibrant neighborhood with commercial, shopping, music, art, and dining has emerged, with hundreds of visitors driving by monthly and enjoying the many offerings of the new district.

Tiffany Kerns, Executive Director,
CMA Foundation on behalf of Sarah
Trahern, Country Music Association (USA)

Stephen Mutuku, Chief Music &
The Arts Development Officer,
Government of Makueni County (Kenya)

MEET THE NOMINEES:

Mark Roach, Auckland UNESCO
city of Music | Tāmaki Makaurau
UNESCO Pā Puoro (New Zealand)

Mark has over 25 years' experience in the music industry across a number of roles such as recording artist, indie record label owner, artist manager, licensing & copyright manager, music reviewer, broadcaster and creative director. He co-founded Independent Music NZ, and founded and chaired the Music Managers' Forum NZ. He is also a former chair of the Music & Audio Institute's Performance Advisory Committee. Mark has a proven track record of initiation, innovation and leadership, and has frequently been at the grassroots of key music industry movements. His career has been one of constant and unwavering advocacy for creators and the infrastructure surrounding them, which is what led him petitioning the city of Auckland to become a UNESCO City of Music. The city is a powerhouse of music activity, both in civil and private sectors, but until the City of Music brand existed there was no cohesion to the multitude of individuals, organisations and businesses inhabiting this space. The City of Music also serves to drive the amplify our music heritage and deliver long-term projects which will lead to increased music tourism for the city; creating placemaking opportunities for the city overall. The long-term vision is a permanent exhibition space for music (a museum) which has already been tested with the landmark exhibition, "Volume". This project, also instigated by Mark, was a testing ground for the idea and the results bore out the concept, with the exhibition trumping all previous metrics for a major exhibition, including repeat visitation, dwell time and reaching the notoriously difficult 18-24 demographic.

Sarah Trahern,
Country Music Association (USA)

Entertainment industry leader Sarah Trahern was named CEO of the Country Music Association in 2014. Sarah Trahern has been a catalyst for effective change throughout CMA and the larger Country Music landscape over the course of the last 18 months. She has been a key voice in the genre and the Nashville community, patiently listening, thoughtfully considering, and confidently leading amid a variety of challenges no one saw coming. She demonstrated this most prominently through CMA's Music Industry Covid Support (MICS) initiative. Sarah led her staff to proactively respond to the challenges surrounding COVID-19, tapping industry leaders to listen, learn, gather information, share resources and develop long-term strategic initiatives to generate solutions across the industry. As the music industry begins to resemble the landscape we were once familiar with, Sarah continues to be a leading voice representing and inspiring those in the Country Music community. Her resilience has primed CMA, and Nashville as a whole, to be at the forefront of the industry, acting as a portal for information, resources, discussion and leadership across all facets of our industry.

Stephen Mutuku,
Government of Makueni County (Kenya)

Stephen Mutuku is the Chief Music and the Arts Development Officer in the Government of Makueni County, Kenya, East Africa. Steve Mutuku joined The Government of Makueni County in Dec 2013. Since joining, he has initiated the set up of a music recording studio, a community radio station, secular and gospel music concerts, cultural festivals, creatives forums and trainings as well as drafting policies and strategies for the local creative sector. These have contributed to the growth of the creative sector in the rural Makueni County in the South Eastern part of Kenya. Many upcoming local artists have been able to record for free in the county government-owned Makueni Recording Studios. They have also benefited from a lot of publicity during the music concerts and cultural events that have been organized by Steve Mutuku and his team. Some of the artists use music for advocacy on climate change, civic education and social issues and this has helped the local community in awareness and change.

Anna-Luise Oppelt & Mareike Neumann,
Managing Directors,
Bach by Bike (Germany)

Julie Turpie, General Manager,
Events, Destination NSW (Australia)

Major Kathy Versfeld,
Mission Director, Strawberry Field (UK)

MEET THE NOMINEES:

Bach by Bike (Germany)

Bach by Bike is a travel agency lead by two musicians offering musical guided cycling tours along the places where Johann Sebastian Bach lived. The tours include the birthplace Eisenach and continue almost chronologically to end at the deathplace in Leipzig, and feature concerts by the Bach by Bike Ensemble. Since 2012, BbB has built up a network of local Bach-initiatives and -societies, opening up hidden Bach-places to tourists from all over the world. A sustainable tour concept was also developed, covering all distances by bicycle, thus experiencing the whole route (not only the “highlights”), staying at local hotels, supporting the local economy and culture and bringing live-music to local ventures. The project brings additional value to the towns it visits, because cyclists stay at local hotels (other than using tourist buses) and drive local tourism and culture. A constant flow of international visitors is brought to the Bach-sites thanks to this project.

Great Southern Nights 2020,
Destination NSW (Australia)

Destination NSW is the lead Government agency for the tourism and major events sector in the Australian state of New South Wales. Its purpose is to deliver economic and social benefits for the people of Sydney and NSW by growing the visitor economy and securing major events. The inaugural Great Southern Nights was presented in November 2020 to reboot the live music and entertainment sectors and, in turn, the visitor economy following the crippling effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. Delivered by Destination NSW, with the Australian Recording Industry Association (ARIA), Great Southern Nights 2020 saw 2,500 Australian artists perform at 1,135 live music gigs in 313 venues in Sydney and across the state of New South Wales. A state-wide initiative, it heralded the state’s reopening for business; it stimulated the visitor economy, targeting both intrastate and interstate visitors; and supported the live music and entertainment sector across NSW (including venues, musicians, crew and other support workers). The event unified all sectors of the music industry and provided a sense of optimism and positivity amongst artists, industry, fans and media. The Great Southern Nights program had a quantifiable impact on getting artists, venues and the broader live music industry back to work and ensured music fans could enjoy music safely in 2020 – as a result, the Great Southern Nights brand earned a great deal of credibility and trust within both the music community and general public.

Strawberry Field (UK)

Owned by the Salvation Army and made famous by the Beatles and John Lennon, Strawberry Field has a long-standing connection with young people in Liverpool. In 1936 it was opened as a children’s home for girls, later accepting boys. From then on, for nearly 70 years, it gave some of Liverpool’s most vulnerable children a refuge from turmoil and unhappiness – a safe, calm and spiritual home. The young John Lennon found solace playing in the grounds of the old house, describing the place as ‘paradise’ and later, writing ‘Strawberry Fields Forever’, inspired by the place he loved. Thanks to the connection with John Lennon and the Beatles, before opening, Strawberry Field saw over 60,000 tourists a year come to stand outside the gates alone. Upon opening in 2019, the new Strawberry Field centre proved popular, with over 40,000 Beatles fans visiting in the first few months. The target market is diverse; visitors include tourists and Beatles fans, travelling from far and wide to see the place that was so special to John, but also include neighbours and the local community, keen to support the project. Strawberry Field also works closely with Beatles partners across the city, Marketing Liverpool and Visit Britain, to encourage tourists to visit the plethora of remarkable music attractions across the city. New for 2022, Strawberry Field will see the addition of a brand-new Bandstand in the gardens, where they will host music events and performances.

Phil Plata, Founder & Director, Pueblos Blancos Music Festival (Spain)

Dr. Sophie Galaise, Managing Director, Melbourne Symphony Orchestra (Australia)

MEET THE NOMINEES:

MUSiK – Year of Music 2023, Kirklees Council (UK)

Kirklees Council is a Local Authority in the heart of the North of England. Made up of towns and villages it is part of the West Yorkshire Combined Authority & the Leeds City region, it sits within the new West Yorkshire Mayoral Authority & has a population of 440,000. The Council and its partners have placed culture at the forefront of its people centred regeneration, policies and development strategies, with music as the strategic priority for the district. MUSiK – Year of Music 2023 will be a ground up, community and music led programme, a catalyst for change, with strands on aspiration & skills, children, young people and families, music industry and tourism, and community. The work has already strengthened the support and investment in music, from support to venues during COVID, to NHS and Council initiatives to support long covid sufferers, to new festivals emerging and our long running festivals gaining confidence in the future.

Pueblos Blancos Music Festival (Spain)

A multi-village event held in Andalusia, Spain, Pueblos Blancos Music Festival offers 4 days of free concerts & cultural exchanges, featuring bands & artists from all over the world playing on outdoor stages in mountain-top villages of Andalusia. All the villages hosting stages are in or abutting the Sierra de Grazalema Natural Park, a designated UNESCO Biosphere Reserve. The project fosters community & kinship among artists, visitors & local people and many international artistic collaborations were created during the festival.

The Schedule

Melbourne Symphony Orchestra

Sidney Myer Free Concerts, Melbourne Symphony Orchestra (Australia)

With a reputation for excellence and innovation, the internationally acclaimed Melbourne Symphony Orchestra inspires and engages audiences around the world. As Australia's oldest professional orchestra, MSO is a cornerstone of Australia's rich cultural heritage. It was late 1929 and early 1930 when MSO held its first free outdoor public performances. Intended to bring beautiful music to the people of Melbourne, journalists at the time estimated that more than 100,000 people had been in attendance; they were a phenomenal success. In 1959, Melbourne's premiere outdoor music venue, the Sidney Myer Music Bowl, officially opened and became the new home of MSO's Sidney Myer Free Concerts. In 2021 MSO celebrated 92 years of these free concerts and 62 years in the Sidney Myer Music Bowl. These free concerts have entertained millions of people since their inception. They have been a meeting place for family and friends, an introduction to a life-long love of classical music, an opportunity to be entertained by world-class performers, and to be moved by beautiful music. Today, they are the soundtrack to Melbourne's summer, attracting on average around 30,000 people annually (pre-COVID). Despite COVID disruptions, the outdoor venue enabled audiences to attend when restrictions on indoor venues applied, thus enabling MSO to uphold this free tradition.

MEET THE NOMINEES:

Bristol Rules Safety Campaign by Bristol Nights, Bristol City Council (UK)

Bristol @ Night is an independent advisory group set up in 2018 to tackle the challenges facing the sector, to make sure that issues affecting the night time economy are considered in council decision making. The panel is made up of representatives from some of Bristol's largest venues and operators. Launched in September 2021,

The Bristol Rules campaign is the first awareness project by the organisation and is a collaboration between Bristol City Council, education institutions and venues across the city. The campaign offers advice and support to those enjoying nights and focuses on five safety themes: drugs and alcohol harm reduction, women's safety, looking out for your friends, river safety and tackling harassment. It also aims to improve confidence in the night-time economy after 18 months of Covid restrictions. This is the first time venues, festivals, Bristol City Council and safeguarding charities have worked together on one campaign to target the priorities in helping people feel safe on the city's streets after dark. The initiative launched on 16 September 2021 and the early response from patrons and stakeholders alike has been phenomenal, with venues welcoming the project with open arms.

customers to the precinct surrounding York, Clarence, and Kent (YCK) Streets in Sydney's CBD. Over the past 10 years, a thriving small bar precinct has developed in the area, yet, until recently, this precinct lacked a formal identity. In the wake of the 2020 COVID-19 outbreak, 15 small bar owners banded together to put the precinct on the map – and to help drive footfall back into the CBD when it was needed most. With support from local and state government grants, the collective launched the precinct with two multi-week festivals known as YCK Laneways Blockparty (6 weeks), and Night Over Light (2 weeks). At the core of these festivals was a vibrant programme of intimate live music performances, taking place nightly within participating venues. Both also featured major outdoor live music events as programme highlights. In delivering these festivals, the collective of small bar owners has worked cooperatively to launch a brand and identity for the precinct, and in doing so brought together more than 20000 attendees, created more than 200 paid performance opportunities for the arts sector and 536 extra shifts for hospitality workers.

Pilot Project Vienna Club Commission, MICA – Music Austria (Austria)

The Vienna Club Commission established club culture at the forefront of Austrian culture discourse, while the pandemic sent the public into lockdown. Funded by the cultural department of the city of Vienna, the organisation started its work on 1st January 2020 with the aim to survey the problems and needs of Vienna's culturally driven night time economy, to evaluate nightlife in the 23 districts of Vienna, to analyse the local service points for clubs and event organizers as well as international service points. Due to the crisis of Covid-19 the funding of the pilot project was extended and in September 2021 the Vienna Club Commission was financed as a permanent service agency. Thanks to the Commission, clubs and event organizers now receive professional services such as counsel and advice, workshops, know-how, evidence-based exchange of all shareholders in club culture.

MEET THE NOMINEES:

Australian Women in Music Awards & Conference, Cicada International (Australia)

The Cicada Board of Directors comprises industry professionals with expertise in the Arts, stakeholder engagement, government programs, communications, finance, not for profit governance and policy development. In 2018, Australian Women in Music Awards (AWMA), a Cicada International initiative, recognised the achievements of women and established support for diverse female creatives and practitioners. In just two years, AWMA has delivered programs which have driven systemic change to make visible female First Nations and multicultural artists, women working in remote and regional communities, female producers, engineers and technicians, emerging artists, elders, leaders and music practitioners across all genres of music. AWMA have utilized partnerships to integrate community engagement and to create an environment of creative, cultural and economic wellbeing for women in the music industry.

Inclusive Live Music Events, Handiclapped Barrierefrei e.V. (Germany)

"Inclusion rocks! Music for All." Berlin based charity Handiclapped organizes and promotes barrier-free live music events along this motto. Artists with and without handicap share the stage and make music together for an audience just as inclusive and diverse. The Berlin based charity has 38 members, over 50% of which have a formal disability, and its main goal is to make barrier-free live music happen as often and for as many people as possible, creating occasions to experience music as a common language and bring people with different backgrounds together. In 2020 and 2021 alone, Handicapped have organised a total of over 20 live concerts, a professional congress, two inclusive online parties, a hackathon for tools to make live events barrier free, a Blog that introduces over 50 inclusive bands and much more.

The Schedule

Kronendal Music Academy (South Africa)

Kronendal Music Academy provides stable, safe and nurturing afternoons where the magic of music tuition develops children's self-confidence and enhanced cognitive, emotional and social skills, whilst advancing and preserving South African musical culture. Based in Hout Bay (Cape Town, South Africa), the Metamorphosis

Through Music project serves impoverished youth (aged 7-20) from Hangberg fishing village and the Imizamo Yethu informal settlement. Kronendal Music Academy offers a stimulating and safe after-school environment where friendship, laughter and encouragement thrive. Children are welcomed every day of the week and given safe transport, a nourishing meal, school homework assistance and psycho-social support. In conjunction with the recently launched music therapy programme, this music course helps to decrease stress and contributes to helping children grow into confident, thriving and employable citizens of the world.

Auckland UNESCO City of Music | Tāmaki Makaurau UNESCO Pā Puoro (New Zealand)

In late 2017, Auckland was designated a UNESCO City of Music within the UNESCO Creative Cities Network, supported by the Prime Minister, the Mayor, the city's Governing Body and the vast array of music stakeholders. The designation acknowledged the long, rich musical history of the region and the cities commitment to further strengthening all aspects of music culturally, institutionally and from an industry standpoint. The Auckland Music Strategy was launched in November 2018 with the aim to strengthen and improve Auckland's identity as a music-friendly city far into the future, as wells as provide a framework for projects that will help Auckland flourish as an internationally renowned creative city with music at its heart.

Music Victoria (Australia)

Music Victoria is an independent, not-for-profit organisation and the state peak body for contemporary music representing musicians, venues, music businesses and professionals, and music lovers across the contemporary Victorian music community. Several projects have been led in 2020 and 2021 by Music Victoria, such as The Victoria Together Commission Program - thanks to which select nominees of the Music Victoria Awards 2020 were given the opportunity to perform in professionally filmed live concerts, the Regional Music Development program - which supported the employment of three Regional Music Workers in three regions across the state, and the No QR No Entry Campaign - enabling fast contact tracing in venues, a strategy which was later adopted by the State Government across the wider community.

Tulsa Office of Film, Music, Arts, and Culture (USA)

The Tulsa Office of Film, Music, Arts, and Culture (Tulsa FMAC) is the music office and accredited film commission of the city of Tulsa. The mission of Tulsa FMAC is to develop and connect resources to further grow and enhance northeast Oklahoma's creative industries, including film, music and the arts, all while promoting Tulsa as a creative hub and cultural destination. Tulsa FMAC launched the music recovery program Play Tulsa Music in 2020 with funding from Tulsa County CARES. With the goal of reinvigorating Tulsa's music industry to provide more job opportunities for Tulsa-based musicians and tech positions, the Play Tulsa Music recovery program allocated $190k to 24 Tulsa venues helping to create 700+ live performances. In 2021, Play Tulsa Music launched for its second year. With the assistance of private funds totaling $100k, the goal remains the same: to provide an economic boost to Tulsa's music industry and support venues in hiring local talent.

Climate Fridays, Green Music Australia (Australia)

Set up by musicians, for musicians, Green Music Australia helps harness the power of the music industry to lead the way to a greener, safer world. A not-for-profit charity, Green Music Australia organises, facilitates and inspires the music scene to make changes to improve its environmental performance, from energy use to packaging and waste to transport. The project Climate Fridays was created in partnership with School Strike 4 Climate (SS4C) during Australia's COVID-19 lockdown to galvanise public opinion against the gas industry, strengthening the growing solidarity between the music scene and the climate movement. Over three seasons, weekly livestream events were broadcast featuring performances from musicians, plus panel discussions with First Nations guests and young climate activists. The livestreams reached over 23,000 viewers on Facebook and associated posts reached 33,600+ people across social media, with livestreams supplemented by recap videos of each show, shared widely by musicians and industry.

Kokowanda Bay, Ruth and Emilia (USA)

Ruth and Emilia are a multi award-winning children's duo with a mission of taking care of the environment. The duo's most recent album, "Kokowanda Bay," received a Parent's Choice Award, a Mom's Choice award, a NAPPA award, a Creative Child Magazine, CD of the Year award, The John Lennon Songwriting Competition (children's) and many more accolades. Ruth and Emilia are both music educators and they perform their musical show based on this album in schools, children's museums, symphonies, children's concert series, and other events which promote saving the environment. During the pandemic the duo had a weekly online Sunday Funday which featured songs about sustainability and crafts made out of recycled articles readily available around the house.

Trash Gamelan, Wayang Sampah (Wangsa) (Indonesia)

Wayang Sampah (Wangsa) is an organisation that cares about the environment and culture. Community Wangsa was born in June 2018 in Surakarta, Central Java, Indonesia and started with a campaign to care for the environment featuring puppet performances made from plastic waste. In its development the organisation also introduced The Trash Gamelan Project, an environmentally sound cultural arts development project using traditional Javanese art facilities and a set of gamelan musical instruments made from waste. With the goal to invite people to love culture and care about the environment, this project indirectly provided education to the community on how to use waste to create works of art and develop creativity, receiving positive responses from the community and attracting people's interest to learn traditional music.
